Key words	Learning design; e-learning; pedagogy
Aims and objectives	JISC is funding a strand of work looking at the learning design and pedagogical aspects of e-learning and exploring what is good practice in e-learning. This session will provide information on how this work is being approached. The Scotland and the North Cluster Group of X4L Projects discussed the theme of learning design at one of its meetings and provided information to feed into the E-pedagogy programme. This session will share information on the discussions that were held. Issues of good practice in e-learning are also being explored by the Digital Libraries in the Classroom projects. The ways in which the Dialogplus project is evaluating this will be shared.
Audience	X4L and Digital Libraries in the Classroom project staff. Members of other projects that are interested in learning design and e-pedagogy.
